ELECTION SUMMARY

A general election in the Yukon was announced on August 28, 1996 and the writs were issued by Commissioner Judy Gingell on August 30, 1996.

During enumeration 16,633 electors were put on the preliminary lists of electors and 1,664 electors were added at revision hearings on September 17 and 18 and special revision on September 27. There were 18,297 electors on the official lists.

Nomination day was September 9, 1996 and 53 candidates filed nomination papers before the close of nominations. A candidate, whose nomination paper was not accepted because the candidate's consent was not witnessed in compliance with the nomination paper, petitioned the Supreme Court. The judge ordered the returning officer in the Electoral District of Kluane to accept the nomination paper as the Elections Act did not require the candidate's consent to be in the form of a statutory declaration.

Another candidate was advised following the close of nominations that his nomination was invalid as an official agent was not named on the nomination paper as required by the Elections Act. The chief electoral officer did not respond to the petition filed by the candidate in the Supreme Court and the candidate was included by court order on the ballot paper for the Electoral District of McIntyre-Takhini. Totally, there were 54 candidates of whom seven filed as independents. While 47 candidates were endorsed by registered political parties, no political party had candidates in all electoral districts.

On September 23 and 24, at the advance poll, 938 electors voted. Polling day was Monday, September 30, 1996 and 13,621 electors voted, including voters who were absent from their electoral districts for work or education, those who were hospitalized or on remand and those who were out of the Yukon.

There were three judicial recounts held, one of which resulted in a tie vote. The tied-vote result in the Electoral District of Vuntut Gwich'in was ended by a draw before a judge of the Supreme Court immediately following the recount. The results of the elections in the remaining 14 electoral districts were declared on October 14, 1996.
